Department of Tourism, Culture and Sport*

Welcome from Mary Hanafin TD

Minister for Tourism, Culture and Sport

I am particularly pleased to welcome you to the 4th Dublin Book Festival especially as it is only a few months since Dublin City was deservedly awarded the designation of UNESCO Dublin City of Literature. The Dublin Book Festival which has gone from strength to strength in a very short time is organised by Publishing Ireland, the Irish Book Publishers' Association and is supported by the Department of Tourism, Culture and Sport; Foras na Gaeilge; Dublin City Libraries and Dublin City Council.

This year the Dublin Book Festival, extended from three to five days will showcase the amazing wealth and variety of Irish writing and Irish publishing. More than 60 of Ireland's leading authors, poets and journalists will participate in this year's Festival, contributing a whole range of personal experiences from the well established figures in Irish literature, to aspiring, challenging practitioners and those only starting out on their creative journeys.

I am pleased that the Department has been able to maintain its financial support for the Festival this year. This will ensure that the Festival continues its free admission policy and that it remains one of the most accessible festivals in this vibrant city.

The Festival includes more than 50 readings, debates, book launches, workshops together with events for children, a special Festival Café at City Hall and the Festival Bookshop with offerings from Irish publishers.

Tá mé cinnte go mbeidh gach duine, idir óg agus aosta, ábalta rud éigin a aimsiú ar chlár na Féile ar mhaith leo freastal air.

I congratulate the organisers and their sponsors and I am sure tremendous enjoyment and inspiration will be gleaned by many, many, people from their participation in the 4th Dublin Book Festival.

Take a bow!

The arts really matter to us in Ireland; they are a big part of people's lives, the country's single most popular pursuit. Our artists interpret our past, define who we are today, and imagine our future. We can all take pride in the enormous reputation our artists have earned around the world.

The arts play a vital role in our economy, and smart investment of taxpayers' money in the arts is repaid many times over. The dividends come in the form of a high value, creative economy driven by a flexible, educated, innovative work force, and in a cultural tourism industry worth €2.4 billion directly a year.

The Arts Council is the Irish Government agency for funding and developing the arts. Arts Council funding from the taxpayer, through the Department of Tourism, Culture and Sport, for 2011 is €65.2 million, that's around 80 cents a week for every household.

So, when you next turn the pages of a great book or hear a poem that inspires you or attend an enthralling reading, don't forget the role you played and take a bow yourself!
